RETURN ON INTELLIGENCE™

Successful companies have the ability to put all aspects of intelligence – from raw creativity to technical expertise and managerial discipline – to work for them.

Herrmann International delivers that ability – and the performance improvements that go with it.

We start with the differences in how people think. Then we give them tools to make the most of their own natural preferences – and to be able to step outside them when the situation requires.

And we do it with an approach designed specifically to deliver business results.

More than one million people have completed the Herrmann Brain Dominance Instrument™ (HBDI), the assessment tool at the core of our work.

Whole Brain Thinking has given our Field Technology Solutions Professional Managers a critical new method for improving business planning, strengthening their teams and boosting efficiency.

GROUNDING IN RESEARCH.
PROVEN IN THE REAL WORLD.

The Herrmann International methods have their roots in work that began at General Electric, and they've been validated by more than 25 years of research, including a database of results from more than 1,000,000 surveys. The Herrmann International approach is taught at the Wharton School of Business and has been featured in books and leading publications, including the Harvard Business Review.

Just as important, we've proven our work in the field, among clients large and small – from Fortune 500® companies to leading academic institutions – in the U.S., Asia, Europe, and Latin America.

We use HI methods worldwide to strengthen our leadership communications and improve the effectiveness of new managers. The Whole Brain approach also played an integral role in our recent successful efforts to increase sales and improve customer satisfaction with our sales force.

TURN OVER A NEW LEAF WITH GREENLEAF CONSULTING

We hired Cynthia Radford through GreenLeaf Consulting to assist us in rallying two very distinct teams within our company together around a high profile business objective. Cynthia did an amazing job of getting all the information she needed up front about our company, the culture and our pressing business needs. Cynthia utilized this information throughout our session to make our HBDI session very personalized and focused on our company's and teams' objectives versus just feeling like we were in a training class. The skills and tools we took away from that session are still being used amongst the teams and it's been a year and a half since the session.

Cynthia is an amazing facilitator, planful and impeccably prepared. I will use her services again and again to bring teams together and get them to move their individual differences aside so that they can move the business forward together.

Cynthia is a powerful presenter and facilitator who really knows her stuff. I would recommend her without hesitation for any training, development or leadership work.
